On Your Own - Extra practice with strings and regular expressions

1. Describe the equivalents of  $?$ ,  $+$ ,  $*$  in  $\{m,n\}$  form

?  $\rightarrow$  zero or one.  $\{0,1\}$   $\rightarrow$  one or more.  $\{1\}^*$   $\rightarrow$  zero or more.  $\{0\}$

2. Describe, in words, what the expression `"(.)\\.\\2\\1"` will match, and provide a word or expression as an example.

Gives us a combination of two characters (because we have two (.)) then repeat the character from position 2, then repeat the character from position 1)

3. Produce an R string which the regular expression represented by "\\..\\.\\.." matches. In other words, find a string y below that produces a TRUE in `str_detect`.

```
y <- c(".w.o.w", "wrong", "w.r.on.g.")
str_detect(y, "\\..\\.\\.\\..")
```

```
[1] TRUE FALSE FALSE
```

4. Solve with `str_subset()`, using the words from `stringr::words`:
- Find all words that start or end with x.
  - Find all words that start with a vowel and end with a consonant.
  - Find all words that start and end with the same letter

```
str_subset(stringr::words, "(^x|x$)")
```

```
[1] "box" "sex" "six" "tax"
```

```
str_subset(stringr::words, "^[aiueo].*[~aiueo]$")

5. What words in `stringr::words` have the highest number of vowels? What words have the highest proportion of vowels? (Hint: what is the denominator?) Figure this out using the tidyverse and piping, starting with `as_tibble(words)` |>.

In line one, we are creating a new dataset after using the `str_replace_all` function on the “words” string/vector. the `str_replace_all` function will replaces all matches, not only the first match.

In line 2, we are capturing any match that start with a letter (lower/upper case), then what comes after that is “.” or basically anything..., then we capture the last letter (has to be lowercase).

Line 3 is changing the position. last letter (has to be lowercase) will come first, then the middle technically stays... then the beginning letter (upper/lowercase) will come last.

line 4 turns the words vector into a tibble (data frame).

then in line 5 the “`as_tibble(temp)`” part does the same thing as above, but then as we are using `semi_join`, we only keep only rows from words that exist in `temp`.
